Good afternoon,

Each superior court is responsible for adopting an official seal and the Judicial Council is not involved in that process. The clerk of each court is the keeper of the court's seal. You can find links to the websites of individual superior courts, which provide contact information, on the California Courts website at www.courts.ca.gov/courts.htm.

Sincerely,

Thank you very much for your prompt response.

I am a little confused are you saying that your offices do not keep a copy of the official seals adopted by each of the Superior Court of California, County of []? where [] refers to a county designation.

Or are you saying that no official seal have been adopted??

Additionally, if there is an office that would have a copy of each of the official seals adopted by the Superior Court of California, County of []? where [] refers to a county designation, then please direct my request to them and let me know who it has been forwarded to.

Thanking you in advance,

Jacque Figg

Good morning,

You have reached the "Public Access to Judicial Administrative Records" (PAJAR) team at the Judicial Council of California. The PAJAR team responds to requests to inspect "judicial administrative records" pursuant to rule 10.500 of the California Rules of Court. You can find information about rule 10.500, the process for requesting records, and the types of records available through this process at www.courts.ca.gov/publicrecords.htm.

We have reviewed your request, attached, and have determined that the Judicial Council does not have any responsive records.

Sincerely,

Good afternoon.

In the email below, you ask whether "there [is] a policy on how many seals a court can make." You also request "any/all records relating to the authentication or exemplification of records generated by the Superior Court of California for enforcement abroad."

The Judicial Council has no records responsive to your inquiries. Your questions suggest that you may be seeking legal assistance or advice about how to enforce a California court judgment in another country. The PAJAR team cannot provide you legal advice. You may, however, want to review the California Courts Self-Help website, including the page discussing how to find legal help (<https://www.courts.ca.gov/1001.htm>), and the page providing information about law libraries, other helpful websites, and self-help books (<https://www.courts.ca.gov/1091.htm>).

Greetings,

Sorry to trouble you again, but I am trying to understand a couple of things:

1. In your response below you state that: "The clerk of each court is the keeper of the court's seal."

2. It is my understanding that the seals of the Superior Court are NOT self-authenticating. If I have a judgment from the Superior Court of California and I needed to prove that judgment for use in another country for child support or other money-judgment, Hague or non-Hague, there must be a central location that can authenticate the signatures and seals of the courts in each county.

28 USC 1738 describes the manner for proving records for use within the United States:

The records and judicial proceedings of any court of any such State, Territory or Possession, or copies thereof, shall be proved or admitted in other courts within the United States and its Territories and Possessions by the attestation of the clerk and seal of the court annexed, if a seal exists, together with a certificate of a judge of the court that the said attestation is in proper form.

However, I cannot find how to authenticate a judgment from the Superior Court WITHOUT the United States for enforcement in a foreign jurisdiction. With this in mind I am requesting any/all records relating to the authentication or exemplification of records generated by the Superior Court of California for enforcement abroad.

Thanking you in advance,

Jacquie Figg
